

Dear FCC official,

I am writing to urge you to not implement any proposal that would lessen the protection given to us by the Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. Since it went into power, this law has made my family's time at home much more comfortable. We do enjoy not getting all the unsolicited phone calls during the evenings when we are home trying to relax after hard day at work. We used to receive 5-6 calls a day on average, now we hardly get one a month.

I think that if the marketing people want to inform us about any of their products, they can use the US mail.

Sincerely;

Hrair Nazarian
